WAWC VIRTUAL CONFERENCE 19 APRIL 2021

Wild Animal Welfare: Does it matter?
Can it be assessed? How can it be optimised?

PROGRAMME

About the Wild Animal Welfare Committee

Founded in 2014 and registered as a charity in Scotland, the aims of the Wild Animal Welfare Committee (WAWC) are to:

- provide an independent evidence base for evaluating, monitoring, assessing and improving decisions affecting the welfare of free-living animals in the UK
- increase awareness of the importance and value of wild animals in general
- promote the welfare of individual wild animals, in particular
- highlight harm to, and suffering of, wild animals caused by human activity, with the aim of reducing these negative impacts.

While the WAWC's remit covers wild animals in the UK, WAWC members are keen to promote wild animal welfare and engage with experts and stakeholders at a global level. Our first two conferences in 2016 and 2019 featured internationally renowned speakers and we are pleased to be able to use conferencing technology for our third event, in order to engage with an even wider audience.

About the conference

The WAWC is delighted that its first virtual conference includes presentations from some of the leading names in animal welfare around the world. We are most grateful to all the speakers for embracing the challenge of answering our three questions about wild animal welfare (Does it matter? Can it be assessed? How can it be optimised?), in addition to agreeing to speak at times of day which are not necessarily conducive to their own welfare. We extend our thanks to them all.

We are also looking forward to discussion and interaction with delegates from many different countries - making connections, contrasts and comparisons about how we interact with the sentient individual wild animals who share our environment.

The WAWC wishes to thank UFAW (Universities Federation for Animal Welfare) for hosting the virtual conference and for the provision of invaluable support and technical assistance.

All views expressed during the conference are those of the speakers.
